

FROM THE EDITORS

This is the sixth edition of our Summer Newsletter. In the course of the six years we have recorded events in the lives of 52 classmates, over 45 items of news about many of you in the Secretary's Notebook, and, believe it or not, some 33 poems contributed by 14 class poets. Your support and participation in this effort has been magnificent.

There are still many classmates out there who we feel sure have interesting life stories, unique experiences, hobbies, thoughts, observations which we would like to hear about. If you are such a one, or know such a one about whom you could write, we urge you to sit down with pen or word processor and be creative. In addition, it would be most welcome if wives of deceased classmates would write up similar stories of experiences shared with their late husbands and send them along to us. So far we have the beginnings of a wonderful Class History, and would hate to stop it now. But we need you to keep it going. You'll be surprised not only how easy it is to do, but how much fun.

Because you have contributed once doesn't mean that you can't send us some new thoughts or old events not heretofore included. We have had several multiple contributors and would welcome more.
